Seven more inmate barbers certified to cut hair

HOLLY SPRINGS - Seven more barbers across state-run facilities are now certified with last week's graduation of the Barber School Program at Marshall County Correctional Facility.

"This achievement represents hard work, dedication, and a commitment to building a better future through education and rehabilitation," Supt. Frank Caswell said, following the May 19 graduation. "And they are now certified barbers."

The graduates and others present heard encouraging words from the keynote speaker, Holly Springs Ward 4 Alderwoman Patricia Merriweather.

Caswell also recognized barber school instructor Janice Wilkins "for her unwavering dedication, patience, and passion for investing in these men. Her commitment to this program has helped provide valuable skills, confidence, and opportunity for each graduate."
